Written and Performed by Azhar Usman
Directed by Aaron Todd Douglas

$25 Adults / $15 Students

Performances at Silk Road Rising
77 W. Washington St. | Chicago, IL
September 6th - 25th

Presidential Candidate Donald Trump has just proposed an ideological litmus test for Muslims and immigrants attempting to enter the United States. According to Trump, "those who support bigotry and hatred" and fail "to embrace a tolerant American society" should be denied visas. Famed comedian Azhar Usman skewers these ironies and more in his brutally honest, one-man show. Ultra American: A Patriot Act explores the tensions and paradoxes surrounding the double consciousness of American Muslims living in an ever-polarizing world. This three-week engagement will run Tuesdays thru Sundays.

Praise for Azhar Usman

“Usman...turns fear into funny.”

The New York Times

Azhar Usman has toured the world performing stand-up comedy and garnered great praise from a wide range of news and media outlets. CNN has called him "America's Funniest Muslim," and he was also lauded as a member of the comedy troupe "Allah Made Me Funny" which toured over twenty countries. As a Muslim comedian in a time when political rhetoric is becoming more and more anti-Muslim, Azhar's emphasis on comedy about the double-consciousness of American Muslimness is as necessary as it is timely. Read coverage from several of his past performances to learn more about his unique brand of political humor and the role he plays in the growing landscape of Indian

“America’s Funniest Muslim Tackles Trump, ISIS, and Racism in Upcoming World-Premiere”
Chicago Tribune

“Mr. Usman not only tackles religion, but the identity of a Muslim male...taking the bull by the horns.”
THE WALL STREET JOURNAL.
