Christmas Mubarak is a first-of-its-kind musical / theatre interplay of Muslim stories and Christian music that celebrates the miraculous birth, life, and ascension of Jesus.

This workshop production features actors from our Silk Road communities alongside choir members from the First United Methodist Church at The Chicago Temple.

Talk-backs After Every Performance

Immediately following the performance of Christmas Mubarak, we have a 20-minute conversation with the audience responding to questions and soliciting feedback.

Audiences are loving the play with music:

"I just never knew that Mary and Jesus were such a significant part of Quran."

"I enjoyed the harmonious relationship between the Christian music and the Muslim texts."

"This program for me is the epitome of the interconnectedness of the two faith traditions."

"I have seen many Christmas shows over the years. This is the first time I felt the actors were sharing their faith with me and opened up their souls. I felt so welcomed."
