Having fled Iran where he was imprisoned for being a gay man, a damaged Razi arrives at his sister's doorstep in Chicago only to disrupt the life she and her American husband built together.

As the Chicago Cubs vie to make history, rivalries of a different kind simmer in the Uptown two-flat that Razi tries to call home.

With echoes of A Streetcar Named Desire, NoVID Parsi's world premiere drama probes the boundaries between family, loss, prejudice, and desire.

"From its Uptown two-flat to its Iranian memories to its Chicago Cubs fandom, Through the Elevated Line constructs a world that is remarkably inviting,"
— Co-founder Jamil Khoury

Both powerful and timely, you don't want to miss this play that director Carin Silkaitis said "couldn't be more relevant." Learn more >>

We're building new homes for our video plays, starting with both/and both/and trades the shackles of “either/or” for the wings of complexity. Our Co-founder Jamil Khoury wrote this semi-autobiographical "video play" to explore the tensions between American and Arab, Arab American and gay, for profit and not for profit, and assorted other “disputed territories.” Learn more >>

Visit our new website to learn about the inspiration behind "both/and," our "Video Play" series, and how to book us for an interactive screening and presentation.
