Patrons Can't Get Enough of Mosque Alert

Throughout its run, Mosque Alert has elicited powerful and profound responses from patrons, many of whom have returned to see Mosque Alert a second time with family and friends. Here's what recent patrons had to say:

"It is such a wonderful feeling to watch educated, well-spoken Arabs and Muslims, much like myself and my family, being portrayed. The Egyptian Imam and his family made me feel proud of my own heritage."

Conversation + Community: Post-Show Talkbacks

We believe that strong art sparks a conversation. How did Mosque Alert affect you? What makes Mosque Alert a particularly relevant play right now? Here are some patrons' thoughts:

"I came with 16 others from a Christian church in Naperville that works closely with the local mosque. The play is an excellent portrayal of how we all let our own biases cloud our judgment."

"It was nice to hear that many people felt the same way about the play that I did - that it was necessary. We need to keep talking about these things, and Silk Road does a service to the community and to Chicago by bringing this topic to the fore."

Talkbacks with playwright Jamil Khoury will continue this final weekend following the performances on Saturday, May 14th and Sunday, May 15th. Join us and participate in a talkback >>
