Austin Campion as the Red Angel

To the outside world, the Lee boys look like the perfect Korean American sons: Isaac plans to be a doctor and his younger brother, Jimmy, is a champion swimmer with a bright future. But when their widowed father, Boo-Seng, decides to take them on a road trip to Durango, Colorado, all three find themselves grappling with old memories and unhealed wounds. As tempers flare and secrets break open, the difference between who they are and who they've pretended to be threatens to tear the family apart.

Rave Review:

5 Stars! 'Durango' seizes its audience and scarcely releases it...a drama that's timeless in its assessments of families but frighteningly timely in its look at American economics...if only ever theater in town had the nerve to try an ending like this once in a while.

- Christopher Piatt, Time Out Chicago

Erik Kaiko as Jimmy and Austin Campion as the Red Angel

Dawen Wang as Isaac, Erik Kaiko as Jimmy and Joseph Foronda as Boo Seng

Rave Review:

'Durango' is quietly devastating...Carlos Murillo's staging is fittingly both stark and tender...Cho's work feels so distinctly American...deft, penetrating scenes...understated but detailed performances...tense moments build to an emotionally shattering climax.

- Zac Thompson, Chicago Reader
