UNMANNED

Written by Robert Myers
Directed by Sandeep Das

Unmanned peers into the lives of two very different drone operators in a remote desert in the American Southwest.

Occasionally comic (and occasionally appalling), Unmanned zeroes in on a retired male fighter pilot with a crippling fear of flying -- and a young female gamer who has never actually flown.

Both operating military drones, the lives of these two disparate characters set the stage for an intriguing examination of the bizarre and disturbing profession of military drone pilots -- posing significant questions about technology's effect on not only warfare but on modern life itself.
