

In honor of Writers Theatre's Vietgone, learn how Malik and Jamil met! View this email in your browser

Do You Know How Malik and Jamil Met?

Writers Theatre's Vietgone is the "probably-mostly-true" story of how two people met. WT asked Chicago theatre couples "What's the story of how you met?" Watch the video below and spend a few minutes with our Silk Road Rising co-founders, Malik Gillani and Jamil Khoury, as they reminisce about their chance meeting.

Don't miss Vietgone at Writers Theatre—Now thru 9/29!

It's 1975 and two young survivors (who may or may not be the playwright's parents) meet in a Vietnamese refugee camp in America after the fall of Saigon. Will this strange new land allow them to fall in love?

Qui Nguyen's wildly creative, irreverent style flips stereotypes on their head, remixing history and culture into a sexy, funny fantasia as he imagines how two soul mates might have found each other in a turbulent time.

Vietgone is directed by Lavina Jadhvani.

Buy Tickets to Vietgone

For a limited time only – get $35 tickets with promo code SRR through 9/23!

Join Us for A Great Migration

SubscribePast IssuesTranslate ▼RSS

Silk Road Rising and A-Squared Theatre Co-Present

A Great Migration

by Preston Choi

Directed by Brian Balcom

Staged Reading at
The Historic Chicago Temple
77 W Washington St, Lower Level
Chicago, IL 60602

Saturday, October 6 at 4pm

Sunday, October 7 at 4pm

As Louise prepares for a TEDx Talk on the Migratory Patterns of the North American Monarch Butterfly, her three sons are on the hunt to find their father to avoid getting drafted into the Korean army. Part nature documentary, part TED Talk, A Great Migration maps one family's search for identity, unity, and a destination they are reluctant to embrace.

Buy Tickets to A Great Migration

Copyright © 2018 Silk Road Rising, All rights reserved.

Want to change how you receive these emails?
You can update your preferences or unsubscribe from this list.